Description

Charming small slant-front desk, also known as a "donkey's back" desk, in walnut, Louis XVI style, late 18th century. It rests on four tapered legs adorned with bronze rings. A drop-front, lined with new leather, opens to reveal an interior fitted with small drawers and storage compartments. The lower section opens with two doors, offering storage space with an interior shelf. The piece presents a simple and elegant line, characteristic of the Louis XVI style, highlighted by the fluted corners, balanced proportions, and the beautiful warm patina of the walnut. This piece has been restored while retaining its antique charm. Its practical dimensions make it both decorative and functional, ideal as a small desk or occasional table. Locks and keys are in working order. Delivery within Metropolitan France: EUR150.
