Description

A rare and beautiful large rectangular wooden mantel clock, entirely lacquered, with a case inlaid with decorative motifs and multicolored fragmented mother-of-pearl foliage scrolls on the front. It features a beautiful white enamel dial with Roman numerals and neo-Gothic hands in blackened steel; the rim is framed by a pretty brass oculus; it is signed in the center F. Coutou "Maison de Confiance" in Graulet... and is protected by a domed glass. It strikes the hours and half-hours (if desired) like a cathedral thanks to its snail-wound spring bell; its key is present, and it runs thanks to its two winding mechanisms, the pendulum weight having an independent attachment for transport, a typical piece of the Napoleon III style, originating from the famous and once wealthy leather-making town in the
