Description

Beautiful and interesting palace sconces in gilded and finely carved wood. These decorative elements were placed at the entrance to a courtyard or palace, measuring 140 cm high and approximately 70 cm deep. The carving is rich and elaborate, with vegetal racemes following one another, revealing vine shoots and bunches of grapes. These are rare objects, especially for their state of preservation, as they are virtually intact with the original gilding perfectly preserved and, at most, simply require cleaning. Period: Mid-17th century Area: Papal States We include a certificate of authenticity with the sale.
