Description

Virgin with Child in carved wood German Religious art of Tyrol mid-20th century Representation of the Virgin and Child between classical and modern according to the popular & religious craft German from the region of Tyrol, this mid-20th century linden wood sculpture is extraordinarily well executed. This kind of sculpture was designed on request for homes or small personal chapels of German Christian & Catholic families wishing to have a Marian representation and child Jesus within their home to praise it, pray her and offer her blessing within the home and the family that welcomes her. The quality of the realism & work of this sculpture, with its moving form draped, the harmonious faces and full of human emotions make this sculpture a true work of modern
