Description

DescriptionOriginal oil and mixed media landscape study depicting a rural setting with slender trees in the foreground and low village buildings beyond. Expressive brushwork and layered pigments combine earthy browns, muted greens, and warm rose tones against a soft blue sky, creating a lively yet balanced composition. The inscription "Santiga" on the reverse likely refers to the location depicted, possibly the village of Santiga in Catalonia, suggesting the work may have been painted from direct observation.ArtistUnknown Artist (20th Century).Artist DetailsThe artist remains unidentified. The spontaneous handling of paint and mixed media, along with the loose plein-air composition, is characteristic of mid-to-late 20th-century European landscape studies
