Description

An important Anglo-Indian circular center or dining table in padauk wood, mid-19th century, seating 12 people. Circa 1840-1860. The top is decorated with a rich carved acanthus leaf motif around its perimeter, above a frieze alternating foliate motifs and rosettes, highlighted by an elegant gadrooned border. The table rests on four turned and slightly curved baluster legs, wrapped in lotus leaves and terminating in lobed feet. Very fine original patina.
