Description

Gouache on paper depicting the flower market on the Île de la Cité in Paris, the oldest market in Paris still in operation today. The market is shown at the Pont au Change, Quai de la Corse. Numerous figures come and go: a woman carrying a basket of flowers accompanied by a soldier in infantry uniform, a little girl in a small cart pulled by a donkey and a young boy, florists and their customers, and horse-drawn carriages in the background passing the Conciergerie and its clock. The signature of Léon Godinnet is in the lower right corner. The gouache is presented in a frame under glass. Gouache: 33 x 24 cm; Frame: 46 x 37.5 cm
