scalloped lower apron with an arcade motif. Straight, square-section leg. Removable upper section forming a plate rack. The base simply slots into a groove carved into the lower top. Projecting ogee-molded cornice. Scalloped frieze beneath the cornice, mirroring the design of the lower apron. Three tiered shelves equipped with retaining strips (plate stops). Open back. Traditional pegged and nailed construction. The back of the piece and the drawer bottoms are made of large, rough split and nailed boards. The back retains a printed paper label reading "Newman & Sons (Hythe) Ltd A 37909", an old mark from a British carrier or furniture storage company. Wear consistent with age and use. Traces of customary restorations. Shrinkage cracks on the panels, wear on the corners, watermarks, and scratches on the lower top. Pronounced wood loss at the base of the rear stiles (uprights). The piece maintains good structural stability.
