

Tachi Kake, Sword Holder, In Kabuto & Shishi Lacquer -- Japan 19th Century

1 650 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Lacquer

Width : 29,5

Height : 65,5

Description

The rectangular base with lobed corners rests on a nashiji background--gold lacquer with shimmering reflections--decorated with a kabuto (samurai helmet) rendered in polychrome vermilion and gold lacquer, accompanied by a shishi (mythical guardian lion) and cherry blossoms scattered in gilded hira-maki-e. A back panel in the shape of lobed clouds connects the base to the upright. The double-notched T-shaped top is designed to hold the sword scabbard.

Materials: Wood, urushi lacquer, gold powder, polychrome pigments. Techniques: Nashiji, hira-maki-e, taka-maki-e. Dimensions: Width approx. 29.5 cm -- Total height approx. 65.5 cm. Origin: Japan. Period: Late Edo/Meiji period (circa 1850-1880).

Dealer

Cristina Ortega et Michel Dermigny

Asian Art, Expert CNES and CEFA

Tel : 0607481028

Mobile : 0607481028

23 rue de Beaune

Paris 75 007