Description

Pair of Safari Saw folding chairs designed by Ole Gjerlov Knudsen, Denmark, 1958. These folding chairs are easy to assemble and disassemble without screws or tools; the frame is held together by a twisted and knotted rope. Their beechwood frame and beige linen upholstery give them a natural look. Combining functionality and timeless aesthetics, they integrate perfectly into any modern interior. The seat tilt is adjustable by sliding the four sections forward or backward. Original linen seat. Rope for support. This chair is characterized by its simplicity, functionality, and craftsmanship, highlighting clean lines and natural materials. Made from high-quality wood and durable textiles, it guarantees comfort and longevity. Its simple yet elegant design makes it a versatile choice for many spaces.
