Description

19th-Century Tapestry with Red Background, Floral Decoration of Roses, Irises, and Dahlias. This decorative tapestry from the late 19th century is presented in remarkable condition. A rich, ribboned floral design unfolds against a deep red background, mingling roses, irises, and dahlias in beige and subtly nuanced tones. The rhythmic and balanced composition is framed by a finely drawn ornamental border, typical of textile productions of this period. The quality of the weave highlights the details of the motif and offers a beautiful relief effect. The original wooden rings are still in place, allowing for immediate wall display.
