Description

A late 19th-century Louis XVI style gilt bronze and marble mantel clock set. It comprises a central clock and a pair of matching candelabra. The clock features a rich decoration of garlands, foliage, and neoclassical motifs, surmounted by an elegant covered vase in marble and bronze. The base is adorned with delicate friezes of a charming gilt bronze putto and birds on branches. The three-light candelabra harmoniously echo the clock's decoration, with foliate arms and finely chased candle cups, resting on marble bases embellished with gilt bronze. The enamel dial with Arabic numerals is signed and shows some minor enamel cracks. The chasing is of fine quality. The candelabra are in good condition.
