Description

Pair of Chinese Porcelain Brush Pots (Bitong), Famille Rose Enamels China, in the taste of late Qing dynasty porcelains, circa 1900. Dimensions: Height: 28 cm Width: 12 cm. An elegant pair of hexagonal porcelain brush pots (bitong), decorated in famille rose enamels on a white ground. The decoration features a rich repertoire of stylized antique objects: vases, incense burners, floral elements, and geometric motifs, inspired by the traditional "Hundred Antiques" (bogu) theme, emblematic of Chinese literati culture and its appreciation for scholarly objects and antiquity. The lively and harmonious palette, dominated by pinks, greens, yellows, and blues, animates the surface without overwhelming it, resulting in a composition that is both dynamic and well-balanced. Their tall, hexagonal shape enhances their decorative presence, while their original function as brush pots firmly places them within the refined world of the scholar's studio. Each piece bears an apocryphal mark to the base, in imitation of imperial reign marks. Condition: Excellent overall condition Gallery's note: A particularly decorative and appealing pair, distinguished by the freshness of its colors and the richness of its ornamentation. Their elegant proportions also allow them to be used as vases, perfect for displaying a few stems or light arrangements, adding a refined and original touch to any interior.
