Description

If you are looking for an icon of Italian design, this 1938 Paolo Venini chandelier represents an extraordinary opportunity. Crafted in prestigious smoky-colored Murano glass, this six-light masterpiece embodies an elegance poised between classicism and modernity. Every detail is a testament to the Venetian craftsmanship excellence of the era, enriched by a refined set of drops that enhance its brilliance.The true hallmark of this work lies in its downward-facing lights, featuring bowls crafted with the famous "fazzoletto" (handkerchief) technique, the unmistakable signature of master Venini. This technique gives the glass a light and sinuous dynamism, making each cup a unique piece of luminous sculpture.In excellent overall condition with no breaks, the chandelier is ready for use
