Description

Oil on canvas painting by Joseph-Eugène Gilbault, signed lower right "1848-1936," depicting a still life with fruit, featuring bunches of grapes with leaves and vines. Note the striking light that highlights the two meticulously painted bunches of grapes and the meticulously captured details, such as the water droplets on the leaves and grapes, creating a realistic image. The artist is well known for his still lifes, often depicting fruit in a classic, detailed style. His works are often presented as botanical portraits or compositions of fruit against mossy backgrounds, as evidenced by the painting in question. The painting is finally placed in its original frame made of pure gold-gilded wood, still in its original condition, although we must note a small intervention that was carried out in the past on the lower
