Description

A very important Louis XVI overmantel mirror and panel decorated with musical instruments, circa 1800. This magnificent, large antique Louis XVI overmantel mirror is richly decorated and commands attention, making it ideal above a fireplace or as a decorative wall element. The upper section features a superb sculpted relief depicting a trophy of musical instruments (lute, flute, trumpet, foliage, and ribbons), typical of Louis XVI neoclassical decor. This motif is surrounded by an elegant molded frame with scrolls and a central shell, finely gilded. The mirror occupies the lower section, framed by an architectural structure with fluted uprights and gilded decoration, lending elegance and balance to the whole. The entire piece boasts a beautiful antique patina and a highly decorative style that
