Description

This elegant jardinière, crafted from precious wood marquetry, embodies all the refinement of furniture from the Napoleon III era to the mid-19th century. Oval in shape, it immediately captivates with the harmony of its proportions and the richness of its materials. Its original lid, perfectly preserved, reveals superb marquetry work combining Amboyna burl and rosewood. The central decoration is composed of lozenge motifs, created from light and stained wood, offering a subtle and refined contrast. On each side, delicate bronze handles accentuate the overall elegance while adding a functional touch. The opening of this piece is highlighted by a finely crafted openwork gallery, evoking ripples and lending lightness and movement. All around the jardinière, an Amboyna burl groove is highlighted by a bronze molding, accentuating the decorative richness. The marquetry band is adorned with finely chased bronze mounts featuring floral motifs. These ornaments extend elegantly The feet are adorned with decorative finials. The stained wood feet have a curved and dynamic shape characteristic of the Napoleon III style. They are connected by a marquetry stretcher with concave sides, reinforcing the overall stability. This stretcher is itself enhanced by a bronze molding. The piece demonstrates remarkable craftsmanship and attention to detail. I should mention the presence of some veneer loss on the upper part of the stretcher. Apart from these minor flaws, the jardinière is in good overall condition. It retains all its charm and period authenticity. This piece will find its perfect place in a classic or eclectic interior. It can be used as a decorative element or repurposed as a display object. Its generous dimensions allow for an elegant presence without being imposing. Length: 58 cm. Width: 40 cm. Height: 82 cm. A rare and decorative piece that will appeal to lovers of antique furniture and Fine marquetry. It embodies the elegance, prestige, and attention to detail characteristic of the Second Empire. A truly distinctive piece to incorporate into a refined decor.
