Description

Elisée Maclet (1881-1962) Paris, view of the Moulin Rouge Oil on panel signed at the bottom right 50 x 59 cm Élisée Maclet (1881-1962) was a French painter associated with the School of Paris. Born in Lihons in Picardy, he settled at a very young age in Montmartre, where he developed a personal style influenced by Impressionism and Fauvism. Like Maurice Utrillo, he specialized in urban landscapes, particularly views of Montmartre, which he painted with great sensitivity, capturing in a very personal way the atmospheres and variations of light. His work is distinguished by vivid colors and expressive brushwork, conveying both the poetry and the popular life of Parisian neighborhoods. The artwork is on display in our gallery located in the Village Suisse, in Paris 15th
