Description

A beautiful set of six Russian vermeil caviar or dessert spoons. The spoons have twisted handles, and the egg-shaped bowl is decorated with vermeil-engraved flowers on a white silver background. A circular cartouche is left blank for future engraving. One spoon differs slightly from the other five: the bowl design varies, and the handle is not fully twisted. Each spoon is hallmarked: . 84 for 84 zolotniks, corresponding to a fineness of 875/1000.. Saint George for the city of Moscow. The assayer's mark AP, probably for A. Romanov, and dated 1889. A different assayer, AA, remains to be identified for the single spoon. Superb spoons with a beautiful contrasting decoration between the vermeil and white silver. The pieces are heavy, a testament to the quality of their craftsmanship. 15.2 cm
