Description

Carved Wooden Flower Basket, French Work, 18th Century
Charming carved wooden flower basket, French work from the 18th century. The composition, lively and highly decorative, depicts a woven basket overflowing with blooming flowers and foliage, treated with great freedom and depth. The piece stands out for the quality of its carving: the basket features a finely rendered woven structure, while the generously sculpted flowers create a strong and expressive sense of volume. The work retains the spontaneity and warmth characteristic of antique ornamental carvings. Highly decorative, this wall element brings immediate relief and character to an interior. It can be displayed on its own as a curiosity or integrated into a more classical setting. Condition: good overall
