Description

Refined ivory sculpture depicting Venus and Cupid, crafted in the renowned Dieppe workshops in the late 17th century. The piece stands out for its exceptional craftsmanship and the remarkable richness of details, characteristic of this important French carving center.

Venus is portrayed in a graceful and elegant pose, captured while admiring herself in a mirror, a particularly charming and rare feature, enhanced by a reflective silver insert. Beside her, Cupid adds a dynamic and harmonious dimension to the composition, evoking symbolic themes of beauty and vanity.

The anatomical precision, finely carved drapery, and the intricate decorative elements at the base
