Description

Description This original pen and ink set presents three satirical cartoon scenes by currently unidentified artists working within the Spanish or Catalan caricature tradition. Top: A uniformed official stands before a building marked "Gobernació" (Government), rendered with exaggerated proportions and formal stance, emphasizing bureaucratic authority. Bottom left: Two men in period dress engage in an animated street exchange, their expressive gestures and confident linework conveying social tension within an urban architectural setting. Bottom right: A policeman confronts a civilian along a row of shuttered shops bearing inscriptions including "Tancat" (Closed), "Sastreria" (Tailor), "Ultramarinos" (Grocer), and "Panadería" (Bakery), suggesting a commercial street scene
