Description

White stoneware ceramic topped with a smooth, translucent crystal. It comprises three types of surface, each with a different color and texture. Upon closer inspection, the textured folds reveal a captivating interplay of blues (photo no. 3). When the sphere is slightly opened, an enameled aurora borealis appears--the signature of Claude's work. The stone at the top, this material gleaned from nature, provides the starting point for the piece. Each box is a universe to hold in your hands. Certificate of authenticity included. Crystal de Roche sphere box. White stoneware. Scratched enamels of manganese and cobalt oxide. Slab work, firing temperature 1235°C. Height 9 cm. Diameter 13 cm. Weight 460 g. Unique piece by the ceramicist Claude Agier Mollinari.
