

Art Nouveau Nymph Vases

Description

A pair of vases, circa 1900, likely painted terracotta, adorned with two nymphs holding flowers, each with a butterfly and a dragonfly delicately perched upon it. The overall graceful design is pure Art Nouveau and evokes an ode to nature and feminine beauty. Good overall condition, with some minor paint chipping in places and a slight difference in the treatment of one flower petal suggesting restoration, unless this was intentional? (see photo). An engraved mark or signature remains to be identified.
