Description

Elegant oval frame in Swiss pine wood (cirmolo), dating to the mid-18th century and attributable to the Veneto-Emilia border area. The piece features a richly carved design with scrolling foliage motifs typical of the Louis XV style, with an openwork and dynamic composition that gives the frame a refined lightness. The central oval is surrounded by a harmonious arrangement of volutes and leaf carvings. The gilding is executed in gold leaf over a red/orange bole ground, still clearly visible, with a warm and authentic patina and light wear consistent with age. Overall in good condition. Minor chips, an old glued repair on one scroll, and a small loss to the tip of a leaf on the left side are noted, all consistent with age and not visually intrusive. A highly decorative object, ideal for small paintings, miniatures, or a
