Description

This bentwood coat rack, crafted in the early 20th century, embodies all the charm and technical mastery of furniture from that period. Its slender silhouette is structured around a central solid wood shaft, which rises to a delicately carved finial. The upper crown displays eight harmoniously curved hooks, patiently steam-bent, designed to hold coats, hats, and accessories while maintaining an airy and balanced line. The base, formed of cabriole legs joined by a hoop, ensures remarkable stability and contributes to the overall elegance of the piece. The whole reflects the blend of functionality and refinement that characterizes pieces inspired by the Viennese style and the bentwood furniture workshops of the turn of the century. This coat rack will find its place naturally in an entryway, office, or shop,
