Description

Pair of Antique Polychrome Faience Architectural Elements - Shell Decoration - 19th Century. Superb pair of antique polychrome faience architectural elements, richly decorated in a Rococo/Baroque style with a large scallop shell motif and vegetal scrolls. These elements have a beautiful green patina with ochre and gray highlights, typical of antique architectural decorations intended for exterior or interior ornamentation. Probably originating from a facade decoration, a fountain element, a garden, or ornamental architecture, these pieces can now be used as decorative wall elements, garden decorations, or pieces of antique architecture in an interior. The polychrome faience offers a very pronounced relief and an elegant sculptural decoration. Features Pair of architectural
