Description

Important, large Islamic brass vase, 53 cm high. It is decorated across its entire body with calligraphy, braids, trellises, mandorlas, and medallions, all hand-engraved with a burin. The finesse and quality of the chasing demonstrate the dexterity of the engraver of this 19th-century piece. Originating from the Near East, it has an inverted chalice-shaped base supporting a bulbous body, surmounted by a long, ringed neck that also terminates in a chalice. The body is exquisitely crafted with interlacing patterns, evoking the idea of a labyrinth, and numerous epigraphic decorations fill the spaces, including complex Arabic knots. Many friezes of braids separate the larger decorative elements. A true masterpiece of Islamic art! These magnificent copper and brass pieces were, under the Muslim
