Description

Bronze and glass side table/end table - Maison Baguès - circa 1970. This elegant two-tiered end table, crafted in gilt bronze, rests on a slender, fluted frame reminiscent of bamboo stalks, an emblematic stylistic signature of Maison Baguès in the 1960s and 70s. The glass tops, subtly tinted and patinated by time, contribute to an airy and refined composition, enhanced by top-shaped finials and delicately curved legs. The piece exemplifies post-war French decorative craftsmanship, blending understated luxury with reimagined neoclassical lines. A decorative and functional piece, ideal as an end table, light console, or side table, it integrates perfectly into a chic, contemporary, or eclectic interior. Period: circa 1970 Materials: gilt bronze and glass Style: modernized neoclassical / Baguès style
