Description

Important marquetry armoire, Louis XVI style, Eastern France, 19th century - Precious woods and burl. This very fine marquetry armoire rests on a solid oak frame, entirely veneered with precious woods, including walnut, fruitwoods, and burl, offering a rich and luminous decoration. The front opens with two doors adorned with finely executed marquetry panels, decorated with neoclassical motifs such as vases of flowers and stylized stars, characteristic of the Louis XVI style. The contrast of woods and the quality of the veneer give the whole a strong decorative presence. The lower section is fitted with integrated drawers, providing functionality and ease of use, while maintaining perfect harmony of lines. The straight cornice and balanced proportions enhance the overall elegance of the
