Description

An elegant, curved wrought iron balcony or terrace railing from the Louis XVI period. In good overall condition, the two sections could be joined by removing one of the central motifs. A frieze crowns the panels, and the 38 cm wide pilasters are composed of a panel featuring a lozenge with ball-shaped finials. Its height at the main body is 82 cm. Its length is 362 cm (with the central motif removed), and its depth is 75 cm. You can visit our website:
