Description

Pair of porcelain cachepots - 20th century. Pair of porcelain cachepots with flared, truncated conical shapes. East India Company style (reviving the conventions of 18th-century commissioned porcelain). Each piece features a distinct decoration within a central oval medallion encircled by a gilt frieze. The yellow model depicts a lively genre scene with a figure in a wooded landscape against an imperial yellow background adorned with floral scrolls. The green model presents a lakeside landscape rendered in shades of purple against an almond green background with scrolling foliage. 20th century. On display at Galerie Courcelles Antiquités, 97 rue de Courcelles, in the 17th arrondissement of Paris.
