A genre scene of great narrative freshness, "La Morra" captures a moment of everyday life with naturalness and emotional depth. The protagonists are a group of young boys gathered around a bench, immersed in the traditional game of morra, captured at the most intense moment of the challenge: hands outstretched, gazes focused, tension suspended between gesture and anticipation. The artist constructs the composition with balance and rhythm, arranging the figures in a semicircle that guides the eye toward the center of the action. The spontaneous postures and attentive expressions convey an authentic and engaging atmosphere, while the details--bare feet, straw
