Pair of Neapolitan Consoles (Late 19th - Early 20th Century)

Elegant pair of Neapolitan consoles dating from the late 19th / early 20th century, crafted in finely carved solid wood. The curved legs and detailed vegetal motifs reflect the high level of craftsmanship typical of Southern Italian production of the period.

The front apron is hand-painted in tempera with polychrome floral decorations and enhanced with gold-leaf accents, while the top features a marbled finish skillfully imitating natural stone.

These consoles stand out for their generous proportions, harmonious lines, and rich decorative detailing. They are in excellent condition, showing only minor signs of age
