Description

Superb and rare 19th-century cherrywood extendable table from France with exceptional dimensions. It measures 97cm wide and 2.30m long (excluding the extensions), which is extremely rare. We only have one like this about every five years. Furthermore, it has two 70cm extensions, giving it a total length of 3.70m when fully extended. This very elegant extendable table features straight legs and beautiful proportions. The table has two extensions of 70cm, also made of cherrywood, with the central part made of chestnut and having a lovely patina. It is therefore possible to leave it open without a tablecloth. It is possible to open one extension and have a length of 3.00m or both extensions for a length of 3.70m. The height below the waist is 65cm, allowing for comfortable seating. In perfect
