Description

Airy and elegant late 19th-century English repoussé silver wall sconces with acanthus leaf motif, comprising a pair and a single. These lovely pieces with their gently twisted candle holders are ideal for mirrored surfaces or a striking wall. The beautifully cut shades are generously adorned with unfurled leaves, and the bases, shaped like plumes, extend hollow tubular arms for possible electrification. When lit by candlelight, they will add a touch of refined elegance to any décor. These 842-gram pieces are carefully assembled and originate from a castle in the United Kingdom. They feature chasing and retouching, with a hot-soldered tab and bar on the back for easy installation. Decidedly in the Louis XV style, these decorative pieces are in very good condition, perfect for adding a touch of refined
