Description

Inspired by the visionary world of Wassily Kandinsky, "Milieu Accompagné" embodies a contemporary interpretation of lyrical abstraction, where each form and color becomes a vehicle for emotion. This rug translates the very essence of Kandinsky's thought into textile form : a free yet profoundly structured composition where nothing is left to chance. The design unfolds against a subtly textured ivory background, providing breathing space for a constellation of vibrant forms. At its center, a fluid and almost organic structure emerges: an assemblage of thick curves and colored segments intense reds, luminous yellows, deep blues, and nuanced greens that evokes an abstract silhouette in motion, like a musical figure traversing the composition. Around this core, a multitude of graphic signs rhythmically punctuate the surface: fine lines that intersect with precision, fragmented arcs, open circles, chromatic punctuations, and scattered geometric patterns. On the left, softer, undulating forms evoke instinctive writing, while on the right, more structured elements grids, vertical lines, and linear symbols establish an almost architectural balance. Touches of black punctuate the whole, adding contrast and depth, while pastel washes soften the composition and create areas of visual calm. The eye moves freely, passing from one detail to another, like in a musical score where each note contributes to an overall harmony. Like the works Kandinsky categorized as "impression," "improvisation," and "composition," this rug is not a product of chance. It is a visual orchestration where each element interacts with the others to create a unique sensory experience. Thus, Milieu Accompagné transcends its decorative function to become a true work of textile art: an invitation to contemplate, feel, and inhabit a space where color and form compose a silent and contemporary poetry. Size : 210 x 145 cm Condition : On the upper part of the rug, there are some stains, wear, and wool replacements (see the last 3 photos), slightly visible when viewing the rug as a whole. The rug has been professionally cleaned. MY COMPLETE GALLERY
