Description

A charming sculpture depicting a woman from Arles in a contemplative pose, wearing a traditional headscarf and a finely rendered Provençal costume. The modeling, both supple and expressive, highlights the gently inclined face and the naturalistic treatment of the drapery. The figure, seated and leaning on a staff, evokes a scene of everyday life, in the spirit of early 20th-century Provençal art. The whole rests on a free-modeled rocky base, typical of patinated terracotta editions from this period. Signed in relief on the base: D. Saint René. T. French work, first half of the 20th century. Original brown patina, well preserved.
