Description

Pair of wheel-thrown and glazed ceramic pitchers, workshop production from the Dieulefit area (Drôme), circa 1950-1960. Beautifully shaped, with a full body, slender neck, and delicate handle. Bright yellow glaze with a glossy finish, characteristic of the decorative experiments in postwar French ceramics. Each piece bears a painted monogram on the underside of the base (likely reading "S.A."), the signature of an independent ceramist. A cohesive set, representative of mid-20th-century modernist workshop productions. Translated with DeepL.com (free version)
