Description

Beautiful oil painting on alabaster of Saint Cecilia, the patron saint of music, depicted playing the organ, wearing a crown of roses and lilies, symbols of her martyrdom and her vow of purity. Her gaze upward represents divine inspiration, suggesting that she is not merely playing, but communicating directly with heaven. The oval, painted in the Baroque period, was likely intended for a private chapel. Original frame Italy, late 17th century. Measurements with frame: 30 x 24 cm. Measurements of painting alone: 24.5 x 19 cm.
