Description

The Hu-type vase (inspired by archaic bronze vases) is covered with an intense, monochrome Langyao (oxblood) glaze. The domed body, tapering towards the top, rests on a low foot. The most distinctive features are the deer-head handles. In Chinese culture, the deer (lu) is a symbol of longevity and prosperity (it has the same pronunciation as the word for a high income or important position). Deep red glaze with slightly varying shades, with visible effects of glaze flow at the casting edge (revealing the clear paste, which is a sought-after characteristic in this type of ceramic). China, Qing dynasty, late 19th century / early 20th century. Height 26 cm, width 23 cm, depth 18 cm. Very good condition, slight crazing on the lower edge. Free delivery within the European Union!
