Description

An attractive antique primitive wooden bread board or kitchen wall board, likely Continental European, dating from the early 19th century. Made from softwood and of generous size, it measures 74 cm in height and 43 cm in width. The front is decorated with a naïve hand-painted design featuring a pigeon at the centre, enclosed within a stylised floral wreath and surmounted by a red ribbon bow. A further floral motif appears below, giving the piece a strong rustic folk art character typical of early country kitchen decoration. The painting is simple and direct in execution, with a pleasing primitive quality that reflects its rural origin. Such boards were both functional and decorative, often hung in the kitchen when not in use. The shaped handle with suspension hole remains intact. The reverse
