Description

CARTIER watch model VENDÔME, of the year 2015 with quartz. This watch is all about the brand's identity: its name, Vendôme, refers to the famous Place Vendôme, the emblematic jewelry venue where Cartier has its historic boutique, its case, made up of three gadoons, in yellow, rose and white golds, refer to the famous Trinity line, whose combination of these three colors is its signature, fine and elegant, it is as much a jewel as a watch, which, of course, harkens back to Cartier's dynasty as a renowned jeweler. This watch, created in the 1970s, corresponds in its fluid lines to the style of the time, and once again reveals the brand's innovative, avant-garde character, which thus breaks with its visual codes, then more based on straight, structured lines, as on the Tank or Santos. The watch thus becomes even more feminine, which is reinforced by the design of the strap attachments. Despite this innovative shape for the house, it features all the Cartier codes, but in a more minimalist version: white or cream dial, Roman numerals, chemin de fer on the dial, blue hands, sapphire cabochon on the crown, thin leather strap... The watch is signed on its dial, "Cartier Paris" on its caseback, numbered. It is full set, i.e. accompanied by its case and papers.
