Description

Pair of Louis XV period sofas in molded and carved beechwood. This elegant pair of Louis XV period sofas is crafted from finely molded and richly carved beechwood. These seats feature a flowing silhouette characteristic of the Rococo style, with a gently sloping, curved back that harmoniously complements the scrolled armrests. The sinuous apron is adorned with delicate carved motifs--shells, foliage, and clasps--underlining the overall refinement. They rest on four cabriole legs, terminating in finely sculpted sabots, in the purest tradition of the mid-18th century.
