Description

Basket-shaped chandelier topped by an elegant cylindrical drop, entirely adorned with cut-crystal pendants forming a rich curtain of light. The finely chased and gilded bronze frame features scrolls, acanthus leaves and neoclassical motifs, characteristic of the Napoleon III taste. The corbeille-shaped lower part is structured by curved uprights, dressed with crystal garlands, and embellished with light arms terminating in bobèches decorated with opaline glass flames, diffusing a warm, refined light. The ensemble offers a remarkable play of sparkle, typical of the great reception lights of the 19th century. With its generous proportions and brilliance, this chandelier is an ideal prestige piece for a setting in a characterful interior or reception space. Height: 160 cm Epoque: 19th century
