Description

Three-door bookcase in walnut wood, French manufacture from the early 20th century.

The piece features a well-balanced and harmonious structure, with lower doors veneered in a herringbone pattern, a fine cabinetmaking technique that enhances the natural grain of the walnut.

The upper section consists of open shelving, ideal for books and collectibles, topped by a shaped walnut cornice mounted on edge, a distinctive detail that adds movement and elegance to the overall design.

The original bronze mounts and handles, finely crafted, attest to the authenticity and quality of the period.

A bookcase of great charm and functionality, perfectly suited for studies, libraries, or classic
