Description

Two mid 18th century blown glass stemmed glasses, slight difference in height 14 and 13.5 cm due to the glassmaker's skill. This type of glass is commonly called "Bourguignon" because it was used as a wine glass in Burgundy. It consists of a circular, bell-shaped foot supporting a leg with an inner bubble, on which is placed an inverted dome bowl there is a slight difference in height between the two (0.5cm) due to its craftsmanship. All other elements (foot and bowl diameters) are almost identical.
