Description

Jean-Pierre FLOCH (1937 - 2015) Composition Abstraite oil on canvas This original oil on canvas by Jean-Pierre Floch is a masterful demonstration of geometric abstraction. In it, the artist explores verticality and depth through a play of powerful chromatic masses. The work is distinguished by a rigorous structure where beams of carmine red, purple and vermilion seem to spring from a dark base, creating a striking dynamic tension. The superimposition of planes and the use of deep contrasts (blacks and asphalt browns) give the whole a quasi-architectural dimension, evoking urban structures or magnified industrial perspectives. Style: Geometric Abstraction / Modernism Dominantly vibrant reds, burgundy, deep blacks and earth tones. Good overall condition, work presented in its original light wood baguette frame. Jean-Pierre Floch is renowned for his ability to transform geometric rigor into vibrant emotion. This canvas is a characterful piece that fits perfectly into a contemporary or mid-century modern interior. Its chromatic strength makes it an ideal focal point for a living room or office. A work that plays on matter and light, typical of Floch's research into the balance of forms in space. Dimensions unframed: 55 cm / 46 cm. With frame: 57 cm / 48 cm.
