Description

Decorative Late 19th-Century French Nest of Four Occasional Tables
A charming and decorative late 19th-century nest of four French occasional tables of lovely quality, dating from circa 1880-1900 and originating from the south of France. Each of the four interlocking tables features a finely hand-painted rectangular top, depicting exotic birds of paradise scenes on a rich burgundy ground. The tops are raised on elegant faux bamboo gilt legs, united by stretchers and set on trestle bases, giving the set both delicacy and strength. In excellent, strong and completely original condition, these tables retain a beautiful warm colour and patination that greatly enhance their decorative appeal. The combination of hand painted decoration and gilt faux bamboo bases makes this an especially attractive and desirable
