Description

Oil and vinegar cruet set in solid silver (800/1000) and cut crystal, made in Italy around the mid-20th century in the Empire style. The oval stand rests on four finely chiselled claw feet. Each mount, delicately decorated with egg-and-dart and palmette friezes, is supported by caryatid figures typical of neoclassical ornamentation. At the centre rises an openwork handle adorned with two opposing dolphins whose intertwined tails form a ring, a symbol of prosperity. The set includes two cut-crystal bottles with fluted bodies and elongated pouring necks, each fitted with its faceted diamond-shaped stopper. Period: circa 1960. Condition: excellent, very slight signs of use, complete with all original elements.
